HOUSE PASSES LEVER BILL

His Measure Proposes to Regulate Future Gambling by Taxation. The house on yesterday, substituted the Lever bill for regulation of cotton exchanges through prohibitive taxes, for the senate measure proposing regulation by means of prohibiting regulation by means of prohibiting the use of the mails and the telegraph for so-called gambling transactions.

The house put the bill through under suspension of the rules by a vote of 84 to 21 and sent it to the senate. If the senate fails to agree to the substitute the differences will be taken up in conference. en up in conference.
Senator Smith, author of the senate bill, is now campaigning in South Carolina and consideration of the sub-stitute may be delayed until his return, though Senator Smith of Geor-gia, or some other southern senator may call it up in the meantime.

Both the senate and house measures aim to regulate alleged evil prac-tices on the cotton exchanges which the cotton producers contend keep down the price of cotton. The sen-ate bill, through the postoffice department and the interstate com-merce commission's jurisdiction over the telegraph, would prohibit the transmission of quotations and lists of sales of cotton that did not comply what has he done in a legal way? The house bill relies on the gov ernment taxing power, instead of inhibitions on the mail and the telegraph, proposing a tax of $5 a bale on contracts that do not comply with the requirements.

No tax would be imposed on what

No tax would be imposed on what are regarded as legitimate contracts. The measure would require that contracts must be in writing; must specify the quantity of cotton involved in each transaction and give the names and addresses of buyers and sellers, with the basis grade of the cotton involved. Other sections would rise.

He is a lawyer who believes constitutions to be practical and took the position before the Court that the position before the Court that the provide that the cotton must be or within the grades specifically estab-lished by the secretary of agriculture, and that in case other than the basis grade is delivered, the differences above or below the contract price must be the actual commercial differences and not the differences but held that two unnecessary prodifferences and not the differences arbitrarily fixed by the cotton exchanges, the commercial differences visions in the bill were in violation to be determined by the secretary of agriculture by comparison of prices would have to be so drawn as to leave and RUBBERS for both styles of Jars. A lively debate preceded the vote on the bill. Democratic Leader Underwood, favoring the measure, pointed out that the whole proposition rested on the proposal that congress should either suppress or regulate the cotton exchanges of the country. "Whatever particular power you use to enforce a law," he said, "is a secondary proposition, but there is no better power in the government than the power to tax, which is in this bill. he be on the same side, fighting the

"I believe that the practices of the New York cotton exchange cost the Southern producers annually $100,-000,000," declared Representative Lever of South Carolina, chairman of the agricultural committee, and au-thor of the bill. "The purpose of this bill is to eliminate the practices which constitute such an enormous burden." Representative Wingo of Arkansas insisted upon legislation along the lines of the Scott bill.

Representative Aswell of Louisiana, sought to introduce, as a substitute for the Lever bill, a measure of the National Farmers' Union, but was ruled out of order. The Aswell bill would levy a tax of 2 cents a pound. Representative Hughes of Georgia, opposed the bill, because, he declared, certain features were detrimental to cotton growers.

Progressive Leader Murdock also opposed the bill. He favored the Smith bill. Representative Sims of Tenne spoke against the measure.

In an analysis of the government's financial situation. Mr. Underwood announced that the total receipts of the government for the fiscal year ending today would ag-gregate $733,000,000, leaving a surplus of $30,000,000 and that with only a half year's operation of the income tax. That did not include Panama expenditures, estimated at $35,000,-000. Next year, he declared. Panama expenditures virtually would pass away, and canal receipts would pay running expenses. Mr. Underwood's speech was in support of the senate mendment to the legislative appre priation bill to increase the treasur fund for collecting the income tax from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000, which the house finally agreed to, Mr. the house finally agreed to, Mr. Underwood explained the increase was for collecting the income tax from LOUIS ROTH | Cloths, at attractive prices.
